Call for Papers

Third Annual Conference on the Adirondacks

May 13 - 14, 1996

Great Camp Sagamore

Raquette Lake, N.Y.

sponsored by

Adirondack Research Consortium

Sagamore Institute

Cornell Center for the Environment

We are pleased to announce a general call for papers for presentation at the third annual meeting of the Adirondack Research Consortium, co-sponsored by the Cornell Center for the Environment and Sagamore Institute. Building on the success of the past two meetings, this conference provides a unique forum and opportunity to present multi-disciplinary research on the Adirondack region of New York State. The conference will be hosted at Great Camp Sagamore, a national historical site and ideal location for discussion and education concerning the Adirondacks. The co-sponsorship has been designed to minimize registration fees, which will include lodging, meals, and recreation at Sagamore, and participation in all sessions and scheduled extracurricular events.

Authors of accepted papers will be invited to present for approximately 20 minutes. Submissions from all and any discipline are encouraged, as are proposals for poster sessions or workshops. Abstracts from participants will be included in the conference proceedings and presenters will be invited to submit papers for publication review to the Adirondack Journal of Environmental Studies.

To have a paper considered, please submit a one page abstract, with the presenting author's name and contact information, as soon as possible to:

Jon Erickson and Michael Wilson
Co-chairs, Third Annual Conference on the Adirondacks
